

Below is a list of resources designed to keep learning going in the midst of unprecedented disruptions and changes caused by the coronavirus (COVID-19) pandemic:

- Scholastic Learn at Home
Offers learning experiences for Pre-K through 6+
- Into the Book
Elementary school students can practice reading comprehension
- Science Friday
Elementary to high school students can get lessons in physics, chemistry, earth science, and biology
- National Geographic for Kids
Includes activities, brain boosters, and other "cool stuff"
- PBS Kids Daily Newsletter
You can receive a daily newsletter with activities and tips to help kids play and learn at home
- Epic!
For kids 12 and under that gives parents access to 35,000 different books, videos, and quizzes. Parents can get free access for 30 days
- Math Game Time
Offers games to improve student's math skills from Pre-K to 7th grade
- Storyline Online
Celebrities read popular children's books geared towards kids ages 4 to 7
- Khan Academy
Khan Academy has created daily schedules for students in Pre-K through 12th grade to follow from home while schools are closed
- Mystery Science

In the midst of school closures, Mystery Science has opened science lessons for grades K-5 for students and parents to access for free. Activities are designed to use supplies that families are likely to already have at home.

- Virtual field trips- Google Arts and Culture
Allows people to take virtual tours of over 1200 leading museums around the world
- Art
Author and illustrator Jarrett J. Krosoczka hosts daily drawing classes on YouTube